is a group treatment program for English- or Spanish-speaking adult women who abuse their male and female intimate partners.

When would I turn to Menergy?

- When I have a man or woman on my caseload who is mandated to attend anger management or domestic abuse counseling after being convicted of assaulting or threatening a current or ex-partner.
- When I have a man or woman on my caseload who I witness, who is reported to, or who discloses abusing their partner/s.
- If I suspect abuse, and want to make sure I'm not ignoring a potentially dangerous situation.

Why would I refer to Menergy?

- For careful lethality and risk assessment.
- For partner contacts as an integral part of the evaluation process.
- For assessment of willingness to change.
- For treatment focused on safety and accountability in homes and on the street.

What can I expect from a referral to Menergy?

- Quick processing: Clients who call and follow through with admission requirements should be seen for their first evaluation session within a week.
- Careful evaluation and communication with probation and parole about the client's participation and appropriateness for treatment.
- Supportive confrontation of abusive behaviors and attitudes.
- Recommendations for handling high-risk cases.

What can I not expect from Menergy?

- A rubber stamp: Probationers or parolees who lack credibility or clearly demonstrate unwillingness to change are not permitted to coast through the program and “graduate.”
- A miracle pill: Treating patterned abusive behavior in adults is a challenging process. Much depends on the quality of clients’ participation in their own treatment. Research around the work suggests that a percentage of abusive people, even those who go through a solid program, will not stop abusing.

How long does Menergy last?

Clients may be asked to complete any of the following levels of treatment. The most common recommendation is for evaluation and completion of the beginner-level group.

Evaluation:

3 individual 1-hour sessions for evaluation, assessment and contracting.

Beginner level:

10 weeks of 2-hour, once-a-week psychoeducational groups working to stop abusive behavior, emphasizing accountability, taking responsibility and building skills through structured discussions.

Advanced level:

20 weeks of intensive group therapy focused on understanding the roots of the problem and better ways of handling internal and interpersonal conflict.

How much does Menergy cost?

Like much work with offenders, public funding for treatment of “intimate partner abusers” is limited. Menergy charges on a sliding scale for its services. A small public subsidy allows us to charge little to nothing for some very low-income clients. All fees are pre-paid and no-shows are charged.

The sliding scale

Individual session fee: $0 to $100 per session

Group session fee: $0 to $50 per session
